

DH Virtual Book Talk

Roopika Risam (Salem State University), New Digital Worlds: Postcolonial Digital Humanities in Theory, Praxis, and Pedagogy (Northwestern University Press, 2018)

New Digital Worlds traces the formation of postcolonial studies and digital humanities as fields, identifying how they can intervene in knowledge production in the digital age. Roopika Risam examines the role of colonial violence in the development of digital archives and the possibilities of postcolonial digital archives for resisting this violence.

MONDAY, APRIL 26, 12-1

Register at teachdh.sdsu.edu/programming/

This event is part of the Spring 2021 programming co-organized by the DH Center

New Digital Worlds

Postcolonial Digital Humanities in Theory, Praxis, and Pedagogy

Roopika Risam

SAN DIEGO STATE UNIVERSITY

DIGITAL HUMANITIES